Mark 12:30-31 ESV

And you shall love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind and with all your strength.' [31] The second is this: 'You shall love your neighbor as yourself.' There is no other commandment greater than these.'

The Late Great Author Charles Dickens once said this: "A loving heart is the truest wisdom."

Jesus is the reason, and because of Jesus we have to always be full of love. The Lord has never been a God of hate, and because the Lord is not a God of hate that should never be us. We can't love the Lord, and then not love each other because as we are followers of the Lord it is important to make sure that we are always following the Lord, and when we love each other the love of Christ will always go forward.

We have to always trust in the Lord, and we have to always be of good cheer and be friends and neighbors to each other. The Lord doesn't like us to be against each other, the Lord loves it when we are together and it is important for us to be together and it is for us to always show love that doesn't leave us.

Following the Lord we are called to love the Lord which we should, and then not only loving the Lord but we do have to love each other and we should always be kind to each other. We need to show the love of Christ daily, because Jesus is love and since we know that Jesus is love, we need to always show love, because if we aren't loving then we are not being pleasing in the eyes of the Lord!

Make sure that you are showing love to each other, and love will never fail because love always lives and that is because we practice what we profess and love is always real! Love each other!
